

MAD SCENES ON RAILWAY

San Francisco Opera Company's Thrilling Performance.

PROGRAM NOT BILLED AHEAD

It was the Outbreking of an Artist's Temperament Stimulated by Strong Liquors.

Winnipeg, April 26.—The San Francisco Opera Company, which closed its month's engagement at a local theatre this week, had a lively time in going to Duluth. The Daily Tribune of Duluth says of the affair:

"The members of the San Francisco Opera company, appearing at the Lyceum the next four nights, were principals in a more tragic story in their private car coming from Hibbing last night—a tragedy which was not on the bills.

"Edward Edwards, who had an important role, was the star actor of the week; performance the company ever experienced. Crazy drunk, he tried to murder everybody in the company, and was not subdued until he was hauled to the floor from behind, tied with ropes and fastened to one of the seats by the members of the company. "This morning he was turned over to the Duluth police, charged with assault in the second degree. He slashed A. L. Rule, a member of the company, with a knife in the struggle to overpower him. Rule swore out the complaint this morning after Edwards had been lodged behind the bars. He was not seriously injured, but had two fingers in bandages.

"The members of the company stated that it was the most awful trip ever experienced. With his pocket knife open, Edwards chased four members into the toilet, including Truly Webb and his wife, the leading personages of the troupe. Two of the women fainted and the others were huddled in the corners or wherever they could get protection in any shape.

"Chief Trover said this morning that the members of the company told him that they feared some of them would have been killed had not Rule jumped on Edwards from behind. They stated that he was so insanely mad with liquor that he didn't know what he was doing and was determined to slash some of them with his knife. They stated that he swore so fearfully that all were afraid of him, using language worse than any of them had ever heard before. Ramping up and down the aisle and over the seats, he declared that he would murder all of them, and everybody was fearful that he would carry out his threats.

"They are firm in the statement that Rule probably saved the lives of several of them. He jumped on Edwards from behind and here him to the floor before he realized what was happening to him. The other men in the car came to Rule's assistance and they managed to get the best of him after a desperate battle, in which Rule was on top and Edwards himself sustained several cuts. The police effected a physician this morning to dress the wounds."

SEALING STEAMER LOST WITH CREW

One Hundred and Eighty-Seven Men are Believed to Have Perished at Sea.

St. Johns, Nfld., April 26.—The probable loss of the British sealing steamer Aurora, with a crew of 187 men, was reported here today by the sealing steamer Bontic. The Aurora had been missing since April 1st. No more definite news is expected until the next arrival from the fishing grounds.

There on board the Bontic and the water Erik reported that a large number of seals killed by the Aurora's crew and "stoned" upon the ice had drifted ashore. Other seals killed by men from the Aurora have been picked up at various places by steamers of the sealing fleet. The Aurora was last seen by C. T. Bowring and Company, Ltd., of Liverpool.

ONE CENT GRAIN RATES

Boats are Carrying Wheat at Phenomenally Low Rates.

Fort William, April 26.—A rate of one cent a bushel from Fort William to Buffalo for grain! Improbable though it may sound, several charters were closed yesterday at this figure by American vessels. The vessel-owners who closed the contracts do not expect to make money on their cargoes and when they get their boats back to Buffalo, it is not likely that they will send them back for more grain at the same rate.

The reason for the remarkably low rate lies in the fact that some vessel-owners put their boats into commission before the supply of cargoes was large enough to warrant the rate. Now some of them with boats at Fort William are facing the alternative of making a rate that the exporters could not refuse or sending their boats to Buffalo empty and laying off their crews until the coal cargoes are available. The one cent rate is the result. It has been figured out that, adding the wages of the crew to the insurance rates, a boat with a cargo of grain at a cent a bushel is actually losing money.

BUDGET READ SECOND TIME.

London, April 26.—The House of Commons last night passed the second reading of the finance bill by a vote of 328 to 242.

HERMAN HEYD DROPS DEAD

Employee in G.T.P. Yards Stricken
With Heart Failure.

CHATTING WITH COMPANIONS

Young Man had Just Secured Work
Yesterday Afternoon and Died After Supper.

While sitting chatting with his fellow-workmen at the G.T.P. yards near the packing plant last night after supper, Herman Heyd, a young fellow about thirty years of age, suddenly pitched over to the ground. When those around reached him and picked him up, he was dead. Dr. A. Forin, 313 Jasper east, was summoned, and after an examination, pronounced that the young man had died from heart failure.

Heyd, it appears, had only been working for the G.T.P. for a few hours. It was only late yesterday afternoon that he secured employment with the fence gang. The work was not heavy, and he seemed to be in perfect health at supper time. He was laughing and joking with his companions when death overtook him with such terrible swiftness.

As far as can be learned, Heyd had only been in the city for a few days. He is a home-steader and has a farm down near Vermilion. It is believed that he also has a sister living either in the town or else on the homestead.

After making his examination, Dr. Forin decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The body was turned over to the Mounted Police, and they will look after the matter of locating the unfortunate young man's relatives.

POISONED BY CANNED FISH

Dr. Cruz, of Sutherland Street, had Nasty Experience.

HIS WIFE ALSO TAKEN ILL

They had Eaten Canned Salmon for Supper and Potomine Poisoning Resulted.

A serious case of potomine poisoning occurred in the city last evening, when the family of Dr. Albert Cruz, 420 Sutherland street, were all prostrated by eating a can of salmon. The doctor himself suffered the most, although his wife was also pretty badly poisoned. Fortunately the baby escaped, due to the care exercised by Dr. Cruz after he found that he and his wife had been poisoned.

"It was a clear case of potomine poisoning," said the doctor to a Capital reporter this morning when asked about the matter. "Both my wife and myself were very ill for several hours last night. We had salmon for supper, and noticed nothing wrong with it when we were eating it, but it was not very long afterwards before we knew that we had been poisoned. I called in Dr. Allen, and he agreed with me that the trouble was potomine poisoning, and as the salmon was the only canned food that we had for supper, it must have been it."

The brand of the salmon has been noted and the matter reported to the Mounted Police and to the city medical health officer. Owing to the fact that Dr. Cruz's family had two cases of the same brand several days before without any serious results, it is not known whether just the one can happened to be bad or if a number of them are affected. Both the police and the health officer will keep a record, however, and if any more cases are reported of potomine poisoning resulting from eating this particular brand of salmon, it is likely that prosecutions will be instituted.

SOUTHERN STATES SUFFER BIG LOSS

Millions of Acres of Young Cotton
Have Been Destroyed by Cold Weather.

Atlanta, Ga., April 26.—With millions of acres of young cotton destroyed by cold weather which yesterday overspread the entire cotton belt, with the unusual April accompaniment in many sections of snow and sleet, the South has suffered its most disastrous financial setback since the civil war. Besides the cotton, young vegetation of every description has suffered and the fruit was more or less damaged in every southern state except Florida. Reports received today indicate that the cold snap has covered Georgia, Tennessee, North Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi, and even further west.

GUARANTEE C.N.R. BONDS

Ottawa, April 26.—Hon. Geo. P. Graham has given notice of a resolution providing for the government guarantee of the bonds of the Canadian Northern Alberta Railway Company for the construction of a line from Edmonton west to the coal areas near the Brazeau river and the headwaters of the McLeod river, a distance of 150 miles. The guarantee is to be to the extent of $1,200 per mile for the first fifty miles and $200 per mile for the balance of the distance, with interest at the rate of 3½ per cent. per annum, payable half yearly. The usual conditions with regard to the security are imposed. The guarantee replaces a previous guarantee of bonds to the Edmonton, Yukon and Pacific.

PETTY SPITE IS CHARGED

Contractors Make Complaint Against Building Inspector McKinnon.

HE ONLY ENFORCED BY LAW

Trouble has Arisen out of Prosecutions
Brought Against Contractors for Breaches of Building By-Law.

Charging that J. D. Mackinnon, the building inspector, is carrying on a system of petty spite and persecution against the builders and contractors of the city in the prosecutions that he is instituting against them, J. D. Blaney, 412 Nanaway avenue, manager of the Home Building Company, has written to the city council, asking that immediate steps be taken to put a stop to the trouble.

The letter, which reached the Commissioner's office this morning, is as follows:

"I believe it is the intention of the council of the city of Edmonton that every official in the employ of the city shall discharge the duties of his office impartially and without discrimination against any person or persons with whom he does not see eye to eye. In the prosecutions that he is instituting against them, J. D. Blaney, 412 Nanaway avenue, manager of the Home Building Company, has written to the city council, asking that immediate steps be taken to put a stop to the trouble.

"In substantiation of the above charge I refer you to the recent action of the building inspector in regard to the use of the street at McDougall Church, and as the conditions remain practically the same, I ask that a committee be appointed to at once go over the ground and make a personal investigation of the facts in the case."

"I shall be present at the council meeting on Tuesday evening and if desirable, will make a brief statement of the trouble arising out of this incident."

The trouble has apparently arisen out of the recent decision of Judge Taylor, in the district court, quashing a conviction of Magistrate Cowan. Blaney was the contractor in this case, and although the conviction was quashed, the judgment pointed out that it was not the magistrate or the building inspector that was at fault, but the bylaw. Inspector Mackinnon has lately had Blaney summoned to the police court two or three times, charging him with breaches of the building bylaw. The McDougall Church case referred to in the letter was one of these.

When seen by The Capital this afternoon, Mr. Mackinnon had very little to say on the question.

"I have been doing my duty," said he. "When a builder or contractor does not follow the bylaw, it is my duty to summon him. If the bylaw is not just, I do not see how I can be blamed for that."

Mr. Mackinnon also pointed out that it must be "petty spite" that actuated Blaney in writing the letter, for upon every occasion that the building inspector has summoned Blaney to the police court, the magistrate has found the latter guilty of a breach of the bylaw.

COMMISSION IS IN WINNIPEG

Minty Also Charged W. L. Walsh,
Chief Counsel, of a Breach of Confidence.

Winnipeg, Man., April 26.—The Alberta and Great Waterways Commission, opened its Winnipeg session at ten o'clock this morning in the board room of the Grain Exchange. W. L. Walsh, K.C., and J. M. Johnston acted as counsel for the commission, while R. B. Bennett, K.C., examined on behalf of the insurgents. Norman J. MacKenzie, K.C., Regina, appeared on behalf of J. C. Cornwall, M.P., and A. B. Hudson watched the interests of the Great Waterways and Alberta Railway. O. H. Bigger was present on behalf of H. C. W. Cross, who is in the city, but did not appear before the Commission. The following local council were present: Isaac Pihlalo, K.C.; J. B. Coyne; J. E. O'Connor, H. Symington, E. Anderson, J. C. Tupper and G. D. Minty and Max Dennison, K.C., who is said to be appearing for Mr. Hawes of Toronto.

This morning's session proved very quiet and little of public interest occurred beyond a statement by Mr. Minty that his firm, Messrs. Tupper, Minty, Tupper & McDevish, had last Wednesday severed all connection with the Alberta and Great Waterways railway and the Canada West Construction Co. Mr. Minty also caused a slight sensation by charging Mr. Walsh, counsel for the commission, with a breach of confidence in that he placed documents given to him by Minty before the commission.

Mr. Minty also charged Messrs. Walsh and Bennett with allowing a false impression to go out from Edmonton as to why he (Minty) had left Edmonton and had not appeared before the commission. He said that although he had voluntarily agreed to give evidence, Mr. Walsh suggested that a warrant should be issued for him for contempt of court. Mr. Walsh replied stating that there had been no breach of confidence and said he had not one word to take back of what he said in Edmonton. In this he was supported by R. B. Bennett, K.C. Minty charged privilege for anything that had taken place between himself and Mr. Clarke, the conversation being in the nature of dealings between solicitors and client. The

In the First Presbyterian Church yesterday evening, the opening meeting of the synod was held, at which a large number of delegates were present. After a short service the Rev. W. Ross, the new superintendent of Alberta, gave an address. Mr. Reed said it had been announced, much to his surprise, that he was to read a paper on "The Business Principles of Today, Tested by the Teachings of Jesus." This he said had been done without his knowledge and he thought that as the paper was a long one and also as it was more a study of economics than an address, it could be kept till a more fitting occasion.

After the service the business of electing a moderator has attended to, when the Rev. Hugh McKeller was unanimously voted to be moderator for the coming session. Mr. McKeller in a short speech said that 36 years ago Prince Albert was the furthest west that was settled and had a church. When the Rev. James Nesbitt, who was stationed there, died, he was asked to take up the work. He started out with three horses and a dog to cover the 500 miles. Camping all the time and never passing a single dwelling. He stayed there for two years. The Rev. D. G. McKeller, he said, was also a pioneer of this country—he and Dr. Baird starting for Red River about the same time to establish the work here. Now, Dr. McKeller remarked, he was four sons and a college in Winnipeg—over the large area which has since been settled.

SOCIALISTS IN GERMANY

One of the Leaders Forecasts Great Victory at the Polls.

Berlin, April 26.—Carl Kautsky, the scientific theorist and Socialist, has published a notable article forecasting a great triumph for the Socialists in the elections next year. He says there is an excellent prospect of their doubling their total vote, in which case they will probably have an absolute majority of the aggregate votes polled in Germany.

Kautsky warns the party not to destroy their chances by foolish blunders such as a general strike, which is advocated by extremists for the purpose of extorting universal suffrage in Prussia.

He reckoned that such a triumph cannot be reckoned on with certainty, but anyway it is unquestionable that the Socialist advance will be so extraordinary that it will shake the foundations of the existing system of society and government.

ONE STATION IN NORTH END

Mr. Potter's Plan is to Bring all
Railways in Together.

G.T.P. OFFICIALS FAVORABLE

Mr. Dalrymple, General Freight and Traffic Agent, Promises to Take the Matter up With Company.

"I have not the slightest doubt but that within two years time with an expenditure of no more than $200,000, all the railways entering Edmonton could be placed in the northern part of the city."

Such was the statement made to a Capital reporter today by Mr. A. E. Potter, of the firm of Potter & Marshall, who is the father of the idea of getting all the railway yards to locate north of the Hudson's Bay Company's reserve.

The idea itself is not a new one to the citizens of Edmonton, for Mr. Potter has been discussing it for nearly a year and a half past. But until the present it has only been an idea. Now it is something more. Mr. Potter has worked his idea out, he has had plans prepared and has estimated the cost of the project, until now the idea has taken definite form and looks extremely practicable. Yesterday Mr. Potter presented the commissioners with a plan of the city showing the proposed location of the railway yards, the union station and his scheme for the handling of freight. Suffice it to say that in a general way, the commissioners are inclined to endorse his idea.

Railway Interested.

But the greatest step that Mr. Potter has taken in advancing his scheme was when he interviewed Mr. Dalrymple, general freight and traffic agent of the G.T.P., who was in the city yesterday. And Mr. Dalrymple gave his hearty endorsement to the general idea of the plan. The G.T.P. official went further. He told Mr. Potter that he would by the plans before the company that he recommends, and he thought that they would fall in line with the idea.

The general idea of the scheme is to do away with the cutting up of the city by having three or four different lines of railway entering the city from various points and running down to the centre of the city.

It is proposed that the city buy enough land north of the Hudson's Bay Reserve and south of the G.T.P. yards to furnish ample yards for the Canadian Northern and the Alberta and Great Waterways Railways. The C.P.R. yards, instead of being between Tenth and Fourteenth streets, as is now intended, would be moved a couple of blocks further west. A strip of land, that between the First and Second streets, would be acquired by the city and would be given as a right of way from the main lines to the proposed union station, which would be situated somewhere in the neighborhood of Isabella and Clarke streets. By this means only two subways would be needed, one at the Boulevard and the other where Fraser avenue joins First street.

Terminal Company.

From the yards in the north, all the Edmonton freight would be handled by a local Terminal Switching Company, which would have eight tracks situated where the C.N.R. station yard is at present. According to Mr. Potter's idea, the freight cars would be brought down to these central freight sheds over tracks running down lanes, and drawn by electric motors. All the switching would be done by night, and there would be no smoke or noise, and no traffic would be interfered with. Mr. Dalrymple also approved of this idea, and in fact pointed several places where Mr. Potter's idea could be improved upon. Mr. Potter also suggests that the city could do the work of the terminal company to advantage.

The indications that Mr. Potter thinks could be held out for the railway companies are as follows: The greatest difficulty would be in dealing with the C.N.R., so that it would be necessary to offer the company, not only the land for the new yards, but also enough cash so that the cost of

EDMONTON BASEBALL CLUB, SEASON 1910

BALL GAME WITH CLARESHOLM

Team From the South Will Also be With us To-Morrow—Battery To-Day, Samuels, McLair and O'Leak.

"Baseball today at six o'clock." This welcome announcement was made yesterday by Manager White. At a big expense, arrangements have been made to bring the Clareholm team here for games today and tomorrow. The visitors are a fast outfit and are not amateurs, as almost every man on the team is a paid player. Manager Heister says that he is coming up with the express purpose of taking a fall out of the Eskimos and as he hails originally from Calgary, we believe him, but don't think he can do it. Edmonton is under the necessity of putting up a heavy guarantee, and it is up to the fans to turn out and help the club make a good financial start. Deacon White announced yesterday that his line up would be: Pitchers, McLair, Samuels and Barnstead. Catcher, Willard; 1b, Baxter; 2b, Schultze; ss, Morse; 3b, Brennan; LF, Mills; CF, Olsen; R, Grady.

"In tomorrow's game the other pitchers will be tried out. On Thursday the field events take place and every member of the squad has signified his intention of entering. From the present indications, Pete Morse is not going to have the walk over that we predicted when the contest was first announced. Luss, the right fielder, is displaying great speed in the garden and will make our popular shortstop step the distance in record time to win the purse. Then Barnstead and Brennan are exceedingly shifty on their feet and are liable to pull off a surprise.

The directors are considering the advisability of issuing season tickets for the 30 home games. These will be bound in convenient book form and will be sold at a reduced price. There have been a number of inquiries for these season tickets, and they will likely sell like hot cakes. Announcements will be made later of the price and the places where they may be obtained.

Another twister blew into town yesterday in the person of McCutcheon who is a right handed performer. He will get a thorough tryout as Deacon is not going to let anything get away from him without looking it over thoroughly. Transportation has been sent to Pitcher Dell and he will be here in a couple of days. He is the gent who stands 6 feet 5 in his stocking feet and hails from Richmond, Utah. Another pitcher, named Deller, is working out at St. Paul, and writes that he is getting in first class shape. In his last season in the Northwestern League, he won 25 games and only lost 15.

Deller also states that he has a team of his own in St. Paul that has a game arranged with the Gophers, a team of Jack Johnson's compatriots. He has named his team the Edmonton White Sox and expects to pull off a victory before he hikes for the real Edmonton.

Yesterday morning was spent by the players in getting coached in signals. Inside ball was the order of the day, and Deacon taxed his grey matter so much that he had several brain storms. There is one thing certain about this year's team and that is, each play will be thought out, and the men will have an idea what is coming off. Deacon White is one of the best students of inside ball in the minor leagues, and any player under his management must be there with the thinking stuff. Deak will stand for an error on a hard chance, but not for a dumb play.

LONGBOAT IS DOWN AND OUT

Even Sol Mintz, his Faithful Manager, Admits That the Onondaga is all in.

Tommy Longboat's day is done. This was practically admitted in Hamilton last week by Sol Mintz, who was the last man who had any confidence in the Onondaga. Sol admitted that he did not know when the Indian would run again. "Just at present Tom is laid up with a bad leg," remarked Mintz. "A few days ago he hopped on his wheel and set off for Hamilton. On his way there he had a bad accident and arrived at my place with a badly swollen ankle, which instead of getting better has grown steadily worse and has the Indian laid up in the house. It will be some time before the ankle is sound again, and then it is just a question as to whether he will run or not."

"You know," continued the manager, "the Indian has done pretty well financially, but he has not done a tenth what he could have. Why, I have turned down offer after offer for engagements, and only the other day had to refuse a grand offer to take Tom to Boston to run a pro race where course Tom has the record."

While he wouldn't admit that the Indian was practically through as a runner, Sol intimated that this was so, while at the same time he intimated that the pro game was petered out. When Sol Mintz gives up hope of Tom coming back, we can take it for granted that the poor Indian will have to devote himself to manual labor to earn a living. He certainly can never expect to support himself by his brains.

WOLGAST GETS SWELLED HEAD

Says Bat Nelson and Others are in the Discard—Next Fight Will be With Matty Baldwin.

New York, April 26.—Adolph Wolgast, who has been writing "light-weight champion of the world" after his name for a month, rose loose recently and made a few remarks. His manager, Tom Jones, was absent, and Adolph fairly revelled in the conversational going while away from managerial censorship. They have been noticing Wolgast in the last 30 days, and he is evidently beginning to notice that they are noticing him. Adolph is young and is not the first to feel a slight swelling under the hat when the hand played "Hail to the Conquering Hero."

"Those who saw the fight or even the fight pictures will not take kindly to the youngster's assumption of importance. Modest champions get the popular handshake, the blatant kind never. Here is what Wolgast has to say about things in general and Nelson in particular."

"I expect to fight early in June, and my next fight isn't going to be with Matty Baldwin. It's going to be with Matty Baldwin, and before Coffroth's club in San Francisco. Nelson wants another go with me, but he'd better hike down to that Mexican ranch of his, kidding himself that the reason he lost was because he went into the fight overtrained. He won't have such a good night next time I whip him."

"There's a lot of fighters yelling for a chance at me. I don't consider most of them in my class. Baldwin will be my next victim, and the fight will be in San Francisco, because I'm under obligations to Coffroth. When I will be a cinch for me. I'll give some of the other lums a chance."

JAPS TO HAVE A BALL LEAGUE

Have Raised Over $300,000 on the Coast—It's the Wrestler, is the Leading Spirit.

New York, April 26.—A baseball league to be composed exclusively of Japanese is being formed on the Pacific coast, with headquarters at Seattle. A working capital of more than $300,000 has been raised, and articles of incorporation are now being filed.

Headed by Ito, the wrestler, who is being backed by leading Japanese merchants of Seattle, Portland, and San Francisco, a six-city league is in process of formation which when completed and in working order will provide three games a week. It is planned to have the teams in the various cities organized and in trim for the opening game June 1. The schedule is bothering the Orientals, because of the extreme length of the circuit, which will require much travelling. The winning team will be provided with funds to invade the home land to try for the championship of the Japanese race.

JEFFRIES IS AN OARSMAN

Heavyweight Rows a Skiff to Strengthen his Stomach Muscles—Corbett Arrives Soon.

Ben Lomond, Cal., April 25.—With a view to strengthening his arms and shoulders, and overcoming the weakness in his neck, which several times has been the cause of a cramp, Jeffries abandoned the usual training routine today, and spent the day rowing. This is the first day he missed his run on the road and it was on the advice of his trainers. After Jeffries had finished his morning's pull on the river, visitors at the camp hoped to see a few rounds of boxing, in the gymnasium, but they were disappointed, as the fighter hurried back to the river immediately after lunch. A letter from Jim Corbett, former heavyweight champion who is slated to help Jeffries in his training, reached the camp this morning. Corbett wrote that he expects to reach the training quarters on or before May 27. He cautioned Jeffries not to work too hard. A wire from Jack Jeffries, brother of the champion, also arrived, in which he announced that he would join the camp about May 1. Among the visitors expected tomorrow will be Rickard. Tex wired that he would be at the camp shortly before noon. With Rickard will be Jeffries' friend, Clarence Perry, a Los Angeles baseball promoter. Neither Berger nor Jeffries would offer an opinion as to the cause of Rickard's visit, but it is thought that Rickard wishes to remind Berger to be ready with the list of eligibles for the selection of a referee, who will be chosen on May 4.

How the Huskies Hit

In the game Saturday between Carney's Huskies and Crist's Rolls, the pros, figured in the list column as follows:

Duggan, 1; Carney, 4; Clynnes, 1; Smith, 2; Kelleckey, 1; Tallant, 1; Flanagan, 2; Stanley, 1; Gehan, 1, and even our old college chum Peg, got a bangle.

The Huskies made five two-sackers and two three-baggers. Rawther fair sticking.

THE EDMONTON TEAM

Readers of the Capital's sporting page have an opportunity to see how our players look in a group. There are some big men in the bunch and the tallest.

Dell, who is six feet five inches, in yet to report. Of the Eskimos shown in the picture, McLair, Samuels, Grady, Barnstead, and Graff, are pitchers; Willard, catcher; Baxter, 1st base; Schultze, 2d base; Morse, ss.; Mills and Brennan, 3d base; Olsen and Olsen, outfield.

Songs of the "Alley League."

There's gloom over Hooligan's alley today.

They're sorer than Hamid the Turk.

There's a crimp in the Ragged Stars' rally today.

As they gather to warm up for work,

For Mickey O'Brien, the star of them all,

Who furnished the brains and intelligence,

From the line-up has passed, signed and drafted at last,

By his dad for the grocery league.

In Hooligan's alley they're weeping today.

For Mickey, the king of them all,

Is wielding a broom where he's sweeping today.

And fanning the dust from the wall,

And the keen batting eye that was all to the Cobb,

With never a trace of fatigue,

Helps no more to win since the draft has come in,

From his dad in the grocery league.

O, Hooligan's alley is howling today

And muttering curses galore.

For Mickey O'Brien, the "Clean-up Kid,"

Is cleaning 'em up in the store;

And the keen batting eye and the "salary whip"

The head work and cunning intrigue,

Are wasting away pushing barrels today.

For his dad in the grocery league.

WALL STREET WILL MIGRATE

At Least Five Hundred Bulls and Bears Will Fraternize at the Kingside on July 4th.

New York, April 26.—A large party is making its vacation plans with Oakland, Calif., on July 4, as the principal stopping place. The "Street" has the fight fever to an unprecedented extent and today it is roughly figured that of the 1000 reservations of berths for the Pacific Coast, that are expected to be made within the next three weeks, at least a third would be taken by men in the financial district who plan to see the Jeffries-Johnson battle.

ENGLISH RUGBY TEAM COMING

Arrangements are now Being Made for the Western Tour—Trip Will Cost $11,000.

Winnipeg, April 26.—Last night a meeting of the Manitoba British Rugby Union was held at the Commercial Hotel, S. P. Dodd's presiding. The business transacted was the consideration of the proposed tour in this country of a team comprised of the members of the Oxford and Cambridge universities, and who are affiliated with the Rugby union of England and Wales. From a letter received from the secretary of the Oxford Rugby union one of the conditions stipulated upon was that the various clubs in Canada would have to guarantee the expenses of the tour, which according to the chairman's estimate, would amount to $11,500.

The secretary was instructed to write to the several Canadian clubs soliciting their views upon the matter and asking if they were prepared to guarantee their proportion of expenses. The following were selected as a special finance committee: S. P. Dodd, Harold Spragg, E. D. H. McLean, S. F. Trotter and C. T. Allen.

It is altogether probable that this Oxford-Cambridge Rugby team will be seen in Edmonton this fall. Secretary D. L. Robinson, of the Edmonton Rugby Club is at present making arrangements to bring the tourists here.

A Game for Gentlemen

Cincinnati, O., April 26.—President August Hermann of the Cincinnati team has invited about 150 ministers to witness the game between the Cardinals and Ginger Ginks at League park next Monday afternoon. He received today a letter from Hamilton, O., saying that many Covington and Newport, Ky., clergymen would be on hand. He has set aside fifteen boxes for the reverend guests. He says he wants to make baseball in this city a sport for gentlemen.

Jeff Donates Ticket

New York, April 26.—James J. Jeffries has donated a round-trip ticket to Emeryville, Cal., and a ringside ticket to the fight with Jack Johnson, to the burlesque booth of the actors' fund fair.

Tom Miner, one of the burlesque booth committee, today received the following letter from the fighter:

"Dear Tom: I want to get in on the good work that the burlesque booth is doing for the actors' fund, so I am sending you a round-trip ticket and a seat to see me win on the Fourth of July. You can sell the ticket for a drawing.

WILL STUDY THE INDIANS

American Scientists Start on Long of Investigation.

PREVALENCE OF HYPNOTISM

E. S. Curtis Believes That Indians, Perhaps Without Knowing it, Were Hypnotists.

Seattle, April 26.—The Indians of the North West coast region furnish the most fascinating subject of all the North American tribes in the opinion of Edward S. Curtis, who is now preparing to picture them by photograph and pen in the ninth volume of his comprehensive work, "The North American Indian." Curtis expects great difficulty in getting it.

"Old Indians with a knowledge of tribal mythology are hard to find on the west coast," said Mr. Curtis. "These Indians met with a civilization earlier than most of the tribes. Contact with the white man's diseases and vices is not only wiping them out, but also changing them and disintegrating the tribal relations.

"It is very difficult to get information on the word construction of their languages. They either do not know or have forgotten the old language forms under the corrupting influences of the white man.

Mr. Pierpont is preparing his work under the patronage of J. Pierpont Morgan. He has followed a systematic plan and the Indians of the north-west are to have a separate place in it. For a large part of the volume of this work, material for which is now practically complete, Mr. Curtis began on the Columbia river at Pasco and worked down to the mouth of the big river. He has just returned from that scene preparatory to taking up the work along the west coast.

"I intend to make one more trip back," he said, "and check up the Indian place-names. The work along the Columbia has been especially interesting as that was the route of the early explorers. Considerable confusion has existed heretofore in the names of the old Indian villages as well as the names of the tribes.

"From the mouth of the Columbia I will work up along the coast to Cape Flattery. I intend to make some special researches at Quinalt. From Cape Flattery I will work on down to Seattle. There will be a deep water launch and make the entire circuit of Vancouver island. The work along the west coast and Vancouver island will comprise volume nine of the series."

Prevalence of Hypnotism.

All the Northwest Indians, according to Mr. Curtis, especially those along the west coast, exhibit one striking characteristic in their religious ceremonies, namely, the prevalence of hypnotism. They were under the influence of the priest class to an extraordinary degree.

"I am convinced," said Mr. Curtis, "that the participants in the ceremonies were all in various stages of hypnotism. Though the priests, perhaps, did not know how they obtained these results, there is no question that it was by the exercise of hypnotic influence."

In pursuing his investigations among the northwest Indians, Mr. Curtis declares that he does not care to get information from any Indian less than 75 years old.

"I am seeking men," he declared, "between the ages of 75 and 100 years. From them alone can I obtain the facts relating to their ancient religious beliefs and ceremonies. Ordinarily these Indians are very difficult to approach. It is only when one convinces them that he knows what he is talking about and that he is serious and earnest in his desire for information that he can get anything from them at all. Otherwise they will simply answer questions by a negative shake of the head or a granted 'don't know.'"

Bees Broke Up Ball Game

Los Angeles, Cal., April 26.—In a battle with a swarm of angry bees the members of the Los Angeles and Vernon ball teams were driven off Chutes park field, and the grandstand quickly emptied of its crowd.

Los Angeles was practically in the field and the Vernon team was throwing the ball around near the grandstand when the bees flew over.

A player angered them by hurling a wild ball among them. In a moment spectators and players were in wild flight and scores were leaving the benches to get out of the way of the stingers.

Several of the players entered the game with welts on their faces after the bees had retired.

commission decided to consider the point raised.

The first witness called was Mr. Justice Metcalfe, who in reply to Mr. Walsh said that he had acted for J. K. Cornwall as solicitor and had a power of attorney to act for him.

The power of attorney was given on April 24, 1908. Mr. Cornwall gave him the power of attorney so that he could sign some documents for him. The witness said that he had known Cornwall for several years. Mr. Walsh produced exhibit number 40 dealing with the Athabasca Syndicate, and Judge Metcalfe said that he had executed the same under the power of attorney given by Mr. Cornwall. Any letters on the file in his office would have been destroyed or returned to Mr. Cornwall. In reply to Mr. Bennett, the witness said he understood that the Athabasca Syndicate charter was to be disposed of to some one in the United States. He had inferred at the time that Minty was acting for someone in the United States. Mr. Cornwall was a close friend of the witness and the sale of the charter was discussed in a frank way and Mr. Cornwall asked him to act for him.

The charter was not considered very valuable. Mr. Bennett here read from an exhibit which gave witness power to look after Cornwall's interests and profits. Judge Metcalfe said the parties were anxious to get as much for their charter as possible. Cornwall seemed willing to dispose of his interests at whatever the other parties agreed to take. When the others had agreed the witness was to execute the documents for Mr. Cornwall. Judge Metcalfe said that he knew that Mr. Minty was acting for Mr. Cornwall, but he could not say he knew he was acting for the parties who were to take the option. Mr. Bennett pressed the judge to say that he knew Mr. Cornwall had financial interest in the syndicate and was to get $100,000. The witness said he may have known that Mr. Cornwall had some interests but his office file had no record.

DIAMOND DUST.

The team that arrived in Calgary included Carney, manager; Kellackey, Duggan, Smith, Clynes, Talbot, Flanagan, Stanley, Gethan, Sandridge, and Manning, the last three pitchers.

Walker, the shortstop Carney signed did not arrive in Calgary with the team. He threw his arm out in Seattle.

"Roxey Walter's Regina bunch won their first game," Reports from the American town with the funny name indicate that the Regina ball players put up a very classy article of baseball for their first appearance, and our old friend, Dorey Collins, was one of the shining lights. Johany Hooker, helped out with the bats, and Sage was also in the box. Roxey has started out well and the fans are pleased. If he keeps it up to the end of the season he will have a good thing awaiting him.

The New York Giants derive a revenue of $20,000 a year from 300 private boxes that nearly circle the field in front of the stands.

Tallant is a fine outfielder, and should he come with the stick he will be a star in the Twilight league. He started in baseball at Stanford, and has a brother there now, who is also a clever player.

MILITIA UP TO MARK

Inspector General Says Lack of Money is the Cause.

TRAINING GROUNDS IN WEST

Government, he Says, Should Secure Lands for Larger Camps West of Lake Superior.

Ottawa, April 26.—The report of Sir Percy Lake, Inspector-General of Militia, presented to Parliament yesterday, lays stress upon the effect of the reduction of militia votes last year. He states that the efficiency of the whole force suffered severely from a decrease in votes upon which it depended for maintenance and drills. In the permanent force, establishments had been reduced below the limits of slipped.

Sir Percy Lake's view that had as was the effect of this policy upon the active militia, it was even worse upon a permanent force, and especially regrettably the impossibility of having had all the permanent force mobilized at Peticawara for combined training. Complaint is made as to lack of space for holding the annual camps. In this connection the report says, "it is curious that even in the wide northwest of British Columbia, it should be difficult to obtain sufficient ground, but where land is in private hands, high prices are invariably asked for it, and as regards the public domain, it is a pity that the department of the interior has so far not been able to see its way to set aside what is really urgently needed for military purposes. A steady increase in number of units in the west is certain in the future, and more and larger camps will be needed. The value of land is fast rising and vacant areas are becoming settled. No time should therefore be lost in securing suitable

Lake Superior.

The Inspector-General states that one of the defects most noticeable throughout the force is the weakness of many corps in qualified officers. The question of inducing more officers and non-commissioned officers to attend schools of instruction and qualify, he says, is one of great importance.

One of the pressing needs of the permanent force at the present time, the report says, is a larger number of qualified officers of major or upwards.

Uprising Was Planned.

Havana, Cuba, April 26.—Indigments were returned today against the General Everisto Estenao, a negro leader, and twenty-two other negro prisoners, charging them with inciting rebellion and instigating anti-white violence. The evidence submitted indicated that extensive preparations had been made for a general uprising against the government on May 24th.

CATTLE BREEDER HEAVILY FINED

Had Registered the Stock Which he had not Guarded With Proper Care.

A fine of one hundred dollars and costs was imposed on S. R. English, a well-known cattle breeder of Lumberton, in the Saratoga police court yesterday, the charge of which he was convicted being that he signed false pedigrees for short-horn cattle raised on his farm and presented the pedigrees for registration with the Dominion Shorthorn Breeders' Association. The charge of which he was convicted being that he was in the habit of keeping his herd very carefully and allowing his pure-bred stock to mingle and breed with other cattle so that he was not in a position to know the effect of the offspring of the herd were pure-bred and which were not. F. A. Morrison, who appeared for the defence, contended that it had signed pedigrees or presented them for registration, knowing them to be false. Mr. Peter White, vice-president of the Dominion Cattle Breeders' Association, pointed the ill-effects of allowing cattle with the least strain of impure blood to be registered in the books of the association and to be used for breeding purposes. The defendant was found guilty.

THROWN THROUGH WINDOW

The Hat Saved her Face From Being Cut as Badly as It Might Have Been.

London, April 26.—Paris has informed the world, of how the magnitude of a hat worn by one of its popular actresses during a promenade in the fashionable little town of St Germain-en-Laye all but led to a duel. But London is prepared to contend that the jurisdiction of the mammoth hat, the Merry Widow lid, has been forthcoming.

Practical experience has been invoked to silence those ridiculous persons who complain that such feminine headgear blockades the rush of the railway stations and other places, gives women the appearance of huge animated umbrellas, disturbs the acoustic properties of churches and abstracts the views of tourists who hunger to get glimpses of Niagara Falls, the Pyramids, the Matterhorn and Westminster Abbey. Here is the evidence.

"Miss — met with a serious cycling accident yesterday," runs the thrilling recital that appears in an English provincial newspaper. "Her brake jammed when she was riding down Crosby street, a steep hill, and the machine sailed along at a great pace. Sweeping into Wood street, it ran into the front of the Sun Inn, and the rider was thrown violently against and partly through a window, consisting of plate glass three-quarters of an inch thick. The impact scattered and smashed the bottles displayed in the window and the girl was severely cut about the face and neck. But for the fact that she was wearing a large Merry Widow hat which partly protected her head and face, she might have lost her life."

It is now waged by mere men that, in the face of this practical demonstration, the mammoth feminine hat will become strictly de rigueur for bicycling and automobilizing. For no woman knows the day or hour when she may be thrown through three-quarters of an inch of plate glass.

ONE STATION IN NORTHEAST

moving their entire plant north would not fall upon them at all. In return for this it would have to be understood that the C.N.R. would throw their present property on the market. There would not be much difficulty in dealing with the G.T.P., as the whole idea would mean a money saver to them. Instead of having a long seven-mile loop, it would only be necessary for them to have a three-mile switch from their main line into the station. "The great trouble in the past has been that everybody has considered it such a big proposition," said Mr. Potter, "when in reality it is very simple. And now is the time to do it, for it will only take dollars to do it today, where it will take tens of hundreds to do it tomorrow. This idea of mine has already a big following in the city. I have been working on it quietly for a long while now, but I am thoroughly convinced that the majority of the citizens are in favor of the scheme."

It is likely that Mr. Potter will lay his plans before the council shortly, when the whole thing will in all probability be thoroughly discussed.

Ladies' College; Religious Instruction in Public Schools, and the election of a clerk and treasurer.

On Tuesday evening the paper read will be "The Layman's View of a Preacher"; Wednesday, "The Establishment of a Theological College"; Thursday, "Home Missions," and Friday, "Foreign Missions."

This Morning's Meeting. At the meeting this morning, the Rev. Mr. Hamilton having resigned the position of clerk to the Synod, the Rev. Mr. Mahaffy was nominated and elected. The treasurer of the Vermilion Presbytery was elected Treasurer also for the Synod, and Rev. Dr. Arthur and Rev. Mr. Batches, as auditors. There was a discussion as to whether Rev. Mr. MacDonald, who had but lately resigned from Vermilion and come to work in Edmonton, was to be admitted as a member of the Synod or not. The matter was finally left to the Presbyteries concerned to decide.

A report was made by Dr. McQueen concerning the desirability of introducing religious services in public schools. The report was received and accepted and was referred to a committee consisting of Dr. McQueen, Rev. Stewart and Lang, who will confer with other churches concerning the matter.

The report on Sunday schools was read by its convener, Rev. Mr. Archibald of Ponoka. This report was very satisfactory and showed large increase in the number of schools and pupils. Forty schools have been added during the year and 200 children were joined to the church by baptism of faith through the instrumentality of the Sunday school. Interesting discussions on the work were given by Superintendent Reed, Dr. McQueen and others.

This afternoon the Synod have been invited by Dr. Tully to visit the University at Strathcona.

STRANGE STORIES

Tried to Sell Valueless Stones to Strathcona Chief of Police in Police Court.

Strange and weird tales were told the Strathcona police last night by a Galician visitor to the city across the river. The stranger made himself known by breaking unannounced into the solemn deliberations of the police court. Pushing his way through the crowd, he offered to sell the chief of police two stones. They were valuable, he said, but he was hungry and would sell them for twenty-five cents. Even the chief of police saw that the stones were of no value, so he took the man out of the court and questioned him closely.

The man said that he had come in from his homestead that day and had sold his team to a negro in Edmonton for $95, receiving in payment therefor a cheque. The cheque was made out to James Chapman, which the stranger admitted was not his name, and was not endorsed. The signature was illegible. The cheque was on the Royal Bank at Calgary.

It was discovered that the man was carrying a revolver. He explained this by saying that the premier had given him permission to do so because he was carrying more than fifty dollars on his person.

The man was held as a vagrant and enquiries will be made as to his sanity.

KAISER HAS KEPT QUIET

Belligerent Speeches of Former Times Heard no More.

STILL HOLDS GREAT POWER

But Keeps his Promise and Makes no Public Demonstration of his Opinions.

Berlin, April 26.—The leading feature of the present political situation in Germany is the complete and remarkable self-effacement of the Kaiser, which has been evident from the very beginning of the heated controversy now proceeding in regard to the franchise question in Prussia. The Kaiser, formerly the most prominent controversial politician in his country, has disappeared from party politics, and after thrusting himself into the very forefront of all current public disputes and faction rivalries for two decades. William II. has abandoned the habit and customs of a lifetime and has enveloped himself in an impenetrable reserve.

The Kaiser's present reserve stands in such striking contrast to the freedom with which he previously plunged headlong into the strife of party politics, and after thrusting himself personality of his imperial majesty seems to have changed within the last 18 months. From the beginning of his reign in 1888 till 1908 the Kaiser delivered public speeches upon almost every subject under the sun, and many of his utterances dealt with questions both of home and foreign policy.

The question of Prussian franchise reform has stirred Germany as this country has been stirred for many years. Partisan feeling among all the political parties concerned is fierce and passionate. Public demonstrations of unprecedented magnitude have disturbed the law and order, and the shouts of the militant Socialists marching through the streets of the capital penetrated to the palace—brought the Kaiser remains silent.

When the Change Came.

The Kaiser's attitude of reserve may be traced back to the great crisis of November, 1908, when the popular agitation, in which even the moderate Liberal and some Conservative groups participated against the excessive participation of the crown in controversial party politics, made a deep and unforgettable impression on him. After the leaders of court cliques and syncretistic factions had misrepresented the trend of public opinion to the Kaiser for two decades of his reign, the discovery in November, 1908, that the nation as a whole desired a restriction of the activity of their monarch was a startling revelation, which his Majesty accepted with wonderfully good judgment. That crisis terminated on November 17, 1908, when it was announced, through the columns of the Official Gazette, that, "unswayed by exaggerations of public criticism, which his Majesty feels to be unjust," the Emperor would, in future, observe more reserve and respect for constitutional usages.

Still Retains Power. It would be a grave error to suppose that the Kaiser's real power and influence over the control of public affairs have been in any degree diminished by the change. Quite the contrary. Now, as at the beginning of his reign, the Kaiser is his own foreign minister, and his grip on the management of domestic affairs has never been firmer than at the present time, but his role is played behind the scenes instead of behind the footlights of the political stage.

chair where his coat hung and caught up the garment with shaking hands. The silk lining fluttered loose where Armitage had roughly torn out the envelope.

"Who is he? Who is he?" whispered Durand, very white of face.

"It may be—it must be some one deeply concerned."

Chauvenet paused, drawing his hand across his forehead slowly. Then the color leaped back into his face, and he caught Durand's arm so tight that the man flinched.

"There has been a man following me about, I thought he was interested in the Chalmers. He's here. I saw him at the Monte Ross to-night. God!"

He dropped his hand from Durand's arm and struck the table fiercely with his clenched hand.

"John Armitage—John Armitage! I know his name in Florence."

His eyes were snapping with excitement, and amazement grew in his face.

"Who is John Armitage?" demanded Durand sharply, but Chauvenet stared at him in stupefaction for a tense moment, then muttered to himself:

"Is it possible? Is it possible? And his voice was hoarse, and his hand trembled as he picked up the cigarette case."

"My dear Jules, you act as though you had seen a ghost. Who the devil is Armitage?"

Chauvenet glanced about the room cautiously, then bent forward and whispered very low close to Durand's ear:

"Suppose he were the son of the crazy Karl? Suppose he were Frederick Augustus?"

"But it is impossible! What is your man Armitage like?" asked Durand irritably.

"He is the right age. He is a big fellow and has quite an air. He seems to be without occupation."

"Clearly so," remarked Durand ironically. But he was evidently being watched. So he possessed the famous Strobel employed him. He may have seen Strobel here."

Chauvenet again struck the table smartly.

"Of course he would see Strobel. Strobel was the architect's friend. Strobel and this fellow between them—"

"Strobel is dead. The architect is dead. There can be no matter of doubt of that," said Durand, but doubt was in his tone and in his eyes.

"Nothing is certain. It would be like Karl to turn up again with a son to back his claims. They may both be right. This Armitage is not the ordinary pig of a secret agent. We must find him."

"And quickly. There must be!"

"Another death added to our little list before we are quite masters of the situation in Vienna."

They gave final orders to remain on guard at the house and went hurriedly out together.

Chapter VI

TOWARD THE WESTERN STAIRS.

GENEVA is a good point from which to plan to any of the world for there at the top of Europe the whole continental railway system is easily within your grasp, and you may make your choice of sailing ports. It is, to be sure, rather out of your way to seek a ship at Liverpool unless you expect to gain some particular advantage in doing so. Mr. John Armitage hurried forth in the most breathless haste to catch the King Edward, whereas he might have taken the Ton train at Cherbourg and saved himself a mad scamper, but his satisfaction in dining himself about the King Edward was supreme. He was and is, it may be said, a man who salutes the passing days right eagerly, no matter how smug their colors.

Shirley Chalmers and Captain Litch and Chalmers, her brother, were out of catch watching the shipper in the way as the big steamer swung into the channel.

"I hope," observed Dick, "that we have shaken off all your transatlantic suitcases. That little Chauvenet did easier than I had expected. He never turned up after we left Florence, but I'm not wholly sure that we shall find him at the dock in New York. And that mysterious Armitage, who spent so much railway fare following us west and who almost bought you a watch in Geneva, really disappoints me. His persistence had actually compelled my admiration. For a glass blower he was fairly decent, though and better than a lot of these little toy men with imitation faces."

"Oh, my large brother, I beg a confession to mislead," said Shirley. "These don't indulge in great outbursts or stamp a hole in this sturdy deck, but there are others in my station."

"Probably from the Liverpool consular. He's been pestering father to man get a transfer to a less gloomy hole."

"Then I shall introduce myself with the president when I get home. They are orchids from London—but with Mr. Armitage's card. Wouldn't that excite you?"

"It makes me sick," Dick hung heavily on the rail and glared at a passing light.

"They are beautiful orchids. I don't remember when orchids have happened to me before, Richard—in such quantity. Now, you really didn't disapprove of him so much, did you? This is probably goodly forever, but he wasn't so bad, and he may be an American, after all."

"A common adventurer! Such fellows are always turning up, like bad pennies or a one-eyed dog. If I should see him again."

"Yes, Richard, if you should meet again."

"I'd ask him to be good enough to stop following us about, and if he persisted I should nudge him up."

"Yes, I'm sure you would protect me from his importunities at any hazard," mocked Shirley, turning and leaning against the rail so that she looked back the deck beyond her brother's stalwart shoulders.

"Don't be silly," observed Dick, whose eyes were upon a trim yacht that was steaming slowly beneath them.

"I shan't, but please don't be violent. Do not murder the poor man, Dick, dear," and she took hold of his arm exclaiming—"for there he is—us tall and mysterious as ever—and I found guilty with a few of his orchids pinned to my jacket!"

"This is good fortune, indeed," said Armitage a moment later when they had shaken hands. "I finished my errand at Geneva unexpectedly, and here I am."

He smiled at the feelers of the explanation and joined in their passing comment on the life of the harbor. He was not so dull but that he felt Dick Chalmers' resentment of his presence on board. He knew perfectly well that his acquaintance with the Chalmers was too slight to be severely strained, particularly where a fellow of Dick Chalmers's high spirit was concerned.

He talked with them a few minutes longer, then took his leave, and he saw little of him the rest of the day. Armitage did not share their distinction of a seat at the captain's table, and Dick found him at night in the smoking saloon with pipe and book. Armitage nodded and asked him to sit down.

"You are a sailor as well as a soldier, captain. You are fortunate. I always sit up the first night to make sure the enemy doesn't lay hold of me in my sleep."

He tossed his book aside, had brandy and soda brought and offered Chalmers a cigar.

"This is not the most fortunate season for crossing. I am sure to fall to-morrow. My father and mother late the sea particularly and have retired for three days. My sister is the only one of us who is perfectly immune."

Dick Chalmers was a good deal amused at finding himself sitting beside Armitage—enjoying, indeed, his fellow traveler's homely manner. He knew, he was forced to admit, bore all the marks of a gentleman. He had, to be sure, followed Shirley about, but even the young man's manner in this was hardly a matter at which he could cavil. And there was something altogether likable in Armitage. His very presence was attractive to Chalmers, and the bold lines of his figure were not wasted on the young officer.

Armitage was thinking rapidly of something he had suddenly resolved to say to Captain Chalmers. He knew that the Chalmers were a family of distinction. The father was an American diplomat and lawyer of wide reputation. The family stood for the best of which America is capable, and they were somewhat bound to the American capital, where their social position and the father's fame made them conspicuous.

Armitage put down his cigar and bent toward Chalmers, speaking with great directness.

"Captain Chalmers, I was introduced to you at Geneva by Mr. Singleton. You may have observed me several times previously at Venice, Rome, Florence, Paris, Berlin. I certainly saw you. I shall not deny that I intentionally followed you, nor"

John Armitage smiled, then grew grave again—"can I make my adequate apology for doing so?"

Chalmers looked at Armitage wondering.

The man's long brown hair and eyes were wholly serious and compelling respect.

Chalmers nodded and threw away his cigar that he might give his whole attention to what Armitage might have to say.

"A man does not like to have his sister forming the acquaintance of persons who are not properly vouched for. Except for Singleton you know nothing of me, and Singleton knows very little of me indeed."

Chalmers nodded. He felt the color creeping into his cheeks consciously as Armitage touched upon this matter.

"I speak to you as I do because it is your right to know who and what I am, for I am not on the King Edward by accident, but by intention, and I am going to Washington because your sister lives there."

Chalmers smiled in spite of himself. "But, my dear sir, this is most extraordinary! I don't know that I care to hear any more. By listening I seem to be encouraging you to follow us. It's altogether too unusual. It's almost preposterous."

And Dick Chalmers frowned severely, but Armitage still met his eyes bravely.

"It's only decent for a man to give his references when it's natural for them to be required. I was educated at Trinity college, Toronto. I spent a year at the Harvard law school. And I am not a beggar utterly. I own a ranch in Montana that actually pays me a thousand acres of the best wheat land in Nebraska. At the Bronx Loan and Trust company in New York I am a securities man to a considerable amount—I am perfectly willing that any one who is at all interested should inquire of the trust company officers as to my standing with them. If I were asked to state my occupation, I should have to say that I am a cattle raiser—that you call a cowboy. I can make my living in the practice of the business almost anywhere from New Mexico north to the Canadian line. I state myself that I am pretty good at it, and John Armitage smiled and took a cigarette from a box on the table and lighted it.

Dick Chalmers was greatly interested in what Armitage had said, and he struggled between an inclination to encourage further confidence and a feeling that he should, for Shirley's sake, make it clear to this young stranger that it was of no consequence to any member of the Chalmers family who he was or what might be the extent of his hands or the unimpeachable character of his investments. But it was not so easy to turn aside a fellow who was so big of frame and apparently so sane and so steady of purpose as this Armitage, and there was, too, the further consideration that while Armitage was volunteering gratuitous information and assuming an interest in his affairs by the Chalmers that was wholly unjustified, there was also the other side of the matter: that his exuberance proceeded from motives of delicacy that were praiseworthy. Dick was puzzled and piqued besides to find that his resources as a big protecting brother were so completely exhausted. Armitage was asking was the right to seek his sister Shirley's hand in marriage, and the thing was absurd. Moreover, who was John Armitage?

The question started Chalmers into a realization of the fact that Armitage and Dick found him at night in the smoking saloon with pipe and book. Armitage nodded and asked him to sit down.

"You are a sailor as well as a soldier, captain. You are fortunate. I always sit up the first night to make sure the enemy doesn't lay hold of me in my sleep."

He tossed his book aside, had brandy and soda brought and offered Chalmers a cigar.

WOULD SELL HIS COFFIN

He has Decided not to use it for a While.

HIS CAPITAL TIED UP IN IT

It is all he has Left After a Severe Attack of Typhoid Fever.

Chicago, April 26.—"For Sale—One half sized burial casket, unused; owner has no present use for it. Address H S 92, Tribune."

This turns out on investigation to be an unusual offer following an unusual blunder.

Grewsome jest? Not at all. It's a condition not a theory that confronts Arthur Christensen. He has a coffin on his hands. It was intended for his entire person, but to use his own language, he "beat it after they had counted nine on him," and got well. He is back in his old job, carving steaks at E. B. Decker's market in East Forty-Third street.

"Typhoid fever," which always leaves the patient with something, left him with the coffin. He has $99 of his capital tied up in it and he wants to unload. In detail form it is this way:

Christensen lay seriously ill of typhoid fever at the Lakeside hospital last winter. He lingered along for a time and then got worse.

The day at the crisis—there always is a crisis in typhoid fever—was reached, and his wife was told to prepare for the worst. She went to the telegraph office, in the Forty-third street station of the Illinois Central and, sobbing hysterically, dictated a telegram to her husband's brothers, who live in Wisconsin. She meant to say: "Come at once: Art is dying," but when the telegram reached its destination it said: "Come at once: Art is dead."

The brothers took a train in the middle of the night and landed in Chicago at 6 o'clock the next morning.

Being practical business farmers, with little time to spare, and considering that the details of their brother's funeral were up to them, they set about making the necessary arrangements without further communication with the hospital authorities or the supposed widow.

They purchased of a Wabash avenue undertaker a $100 coffin—$3 discount for cash, balance in hand paid $97—and had it sent out to the hospital. They repaired to a restaurant and ate their breakfast. About 8 o'clock they went out to the hospital and learned that their brother was alive.

He had passed the crisis period and was on the mend. They learned also that the undertaker's man had been there with the coffin and that the house physician had packed him back with it. Their next move was to get into communication with the undertaker over the telephone.

"They explained the mistake, but the dealer in the trappings of woe is said to have listened like one who was not at all interested. He could not see where he was in any way responsible for the mistake. They had bought the coffin. The coffin was their and the money was his. Therefore it was a closed incident from his point of view."

"The near bereaved brothers are said to have offered him liberal reimbursement for his trouble, but nothing doing. The best he could do for them with to keep the coffin without charging them storage until it was needed."

Leaves $10 to Son

South Norwalk, Conn., April 26.—A strange will has been offered for probate here by a lawyer for the late John Hoffman, well-to-do but eccentric farmer, who predicted a year ago the exact hour of his death. To his only son he left $10, while he asks that the remainder of his estate, amounting in the legal phrase to "more than $500," be expended in a monument on his grave.

"I have been interested," remarked Dick. "And," he added, "cannot do less than thank you, Mr. Armitage."

Armitage began talking of the American army—its strength and weaknesses—with an intimate knowledge that greatly surprised and interested the young officer, and when they separated presently it was with a curious mixture of liking and mystification that Chalmers reviewed their talk.

The next day brought heavy weather, and only hardened seagulls were abroad. Armitage, breakfasting late, was not satisfied that he had acted wisely in speaking to Captain Chalmers; but he had, at any rate, eased in some degree his own conscience, and he had every intention of seeing all that he could of Shirley Chalmers during these days of their fellow voyaging.

Fight for Coast Trade.

Vancouver, April 25.—The announcement of the completion of the purchase of the Dunsuir Mines, and lands on Vancouver Island by the C. N.R. interests is heralded as the first light for the coast business with the C.P.R. and the era of development and consequent prosperity is looked for.

For the past three weeks the C.P.R. have been energetically securing all the available coal properties, the largest deals being the Western Fuel Company's properties at Nanaimo, for two and a half million dollars and mines at Boat Harbor in which John Arbutnot is interested.

It is stated the C.P.R. received the first news of the Canadian Northern's option with incredulity. Dunsuir being a director of their road. He indicated offered to the C.P.R. the previous year for six million dollars which offer was turned down with scant consideration.

Now the MacKenzie and Mann corporation is incorporated for $200,000, the provisional directors being the members of the road's legal staff.

W. Griffiths of Wolf Creek died in the Isolation Hospital last night. Mr. Griffiths was suffering from scarlet fever.

The executive of the City Football League will hold a meeting this evening in the Y.M.C.A. at 8:30 o'clock. All officers are expected to be present.

In the football match last evening between Callies "A" and "B," the latter team won by two goals to nothing. The same two teams meet again on Wednesday evening.

The baseball game this evening between Edmonton "Edmonds" and the Clarendon fast semi-pro team starts at 6:00 o'clock. This game will enable the local fans to get a line on Deacon's team.

Mr. George H. Vibbert tonight will hold an open-air meeting at 7:30 o'clock at the corner of Jasper and Howard avenues. At 8:15 he will address a meeting in All Saints' school room.

Mr. E. T. Bishop, barrister, will address the Chartered Accountants' Students' Association this evening at 8 p.m. in the commercial room at Alberta College. Subject, "Commercial Law."

A concert will be given on Friday evening, April 29th, by the choir of the Westminster Presbyterian Church assisted by Mr. Markel, violinist, and Mr. Satterstall, soloist. The programme will consist of quartets, duets and solos.

A committee from the city council met the directors of the Edmonton Exhibition Association last night. The report will be read at the council meeting tonight. The contractors started work on the exhibition grounds this morning and tenders for the grand stand will be called for within the next few days.

In the district court this morning before his honor Judge Taylor the case of Edwin Auld and C. Bruhn vs. the Traders Bank of Canada was heard. The plaintiff had leased to J. J. and E. M. Hamilton some property in Edmonton. The defendants held a chattel mortgage in favor of the Hamiltons as security for an advance of $500. The Hamiltons did not repay the advance and the plaintiffs sued for $500 and interest at eight per cent.

The Edmonton City Council Association gave a very successful smoker in the Mechanics' Hall last night. J. R. McIntosh, the president, presided and a number of speakers were received with enthusiasm. They were W. H. Clegg, H. L. Landry, Mr. Frost, A. Patterson, Mr. Gibbs, A. F. Ewing and J. D. Hyndman. A musical programme was furnished by Shank's orchestra.

HOUSE WORKING HARD

Domestic Parliament Will Probably Progress About May 11th.

Ottawa, April 26.—Announcement was made by the government yesterday that the state hall will take place on May 10th, which probably means that the House will close on Wednesday, May 11th. Hon. MacKenzie King's anti-combines bill was taken up in committee of the whole shortly after 11 o'clock and a few minutes after the House met in the evening the last clause was passed and the bill reported. It now stands for a third reading.

One important amendment means that boards of inquiry will be empowered to take steps to protect producers as well as consumers of goods. The contention is that the producer is often as much at the mercy of the combine as the consumer.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier gave notice that from now on, the House will sit on Saturdays.

McNicol Case Adjourned.

The case of Moore McNicol, charged with obtaining money by making false representations in the sale of Fort George property, was adjourned for one week by Judge Magistrate Cowan in the police court yesterday afternoon on the request of the prosecution, who stated that they wished to bring several witnesses from Vancouver. McNicol was removed to Fort Saskatchewan, where he will be kept in custody very far from well. J. C. Bown, who is defending him, will ask that he be placed in the hospital there.

MILLIONAIRE HAD NOT A TELEPHONE

Sir William Macdonald, of Montreal, had not much use for Modern Inventions.

Montreal, April 26.—Sir Wm. Macdonald, the great millionaire philanthropist, director of banks, and head of the big tobacco manufacturing firm, is moving his offices for the first time in over forty years. He has occupied a small suite of offices off Notre Dame street. To reach these one goes up a dark, narrow stair and finds himself in a plainly furnished suite of small, dimly-lighted rooms. The furniture is severely plain, old-fashioned and of office furniture are to be seen. The serene quiet of the place is unbroken by the sound of the telephone or typewriter as neither of these time saving devices is used. The whole place looks like a chapter from the pages of Dickens.

Now Sir William has decided to move, and is locating his new offices on the seventh storey of a modern office building.

In his new quarters Sir William will be for the first time, have a telephone at his call.

CITY GOING INTO TRADE

Exhibition of Electrical Appliances
Attracts Much Interest.

NEW BRANCH OF POWER DEP.

Everything From Curling Tongs to Washing Machines for Which Electricity can be Utilized.

Electric appliances of all sorts for domestic purposes, from electrically heated curling tongs, to washing machines run by the same power, are being demonstrated at the formal opening this afternoon of this branch of the city electric department. A room in the telephone building, just at the head of the stairs, is set apart for this purpose, and is already attracting a great deal of attention.

When a Capital reporter dropped in there this morning, there was a pretty young lady in attendance, who explained all the wonders of the appliances to him.

The article for which there has been a large demand, is the electric iron. There are half a dozen different kinds of these on hand, some fancy, others plain, but all of them very neat and useful. Then there are stoves of all kinds, from the little one that can be used only for heating enough water for shaving, or some which a whole dinner can be cooked. "Fifteen slices of toast for one cent," is what one is told the electric lighter would only cost the sum of a toaster can do. The beauty of these toasters is that they can be operated right on the breakfast table so that one may be sure of having one's toast hot.

Then there are a whole host of other things, among them heaters for curling tongs and even cigar lighters. The reporter was told that a thousand lights from the little electric unit, which is even cheaper than matches. Of course it is only meant for the smoking room or den, and can hardly be carried around as matches can.

But the two exhibits that attract the womenfolk are the washing machine and the sewing machine. The operator turned a little button, and the washing machine began to operate very vigorously. When the clothes are all washed and ready to be wrung out, all one has to do is to turn a little switch, and the clothes wringer begins to turn merrily.

The sewing machine is simpler still, for all that is necessary is to attach the little dynamo to any machine, and then by simply pressing the pedal, the machine can be made to run at any speed desired.

All these articles are now for sale by the city, and they are being sold at a price that just covers all the expenses that the city incurs in handling them.

THE DAY IN STRATHCONA

Budget of News from the City on the South Bank of the River

The council meets tonight at 8:15.

The annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society meets today at the home of Mrs. G. W. Dale at four o'clock for the purpose of electing officers.

Mr. Geo. H. Vibbert will lecture on the temperance question tomorrow at 4:00 and 8:00 o'clock in the Baptist Church. An open air meeting will also be held at 7:30.

Mrs. H. Alexander, who has been spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. P. Manning in the city, returned today to her home in Calgary.

Mr. Fitzpatrick, superintendent of the reading rooms of construction and lumber camps, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon.

The ball game between the Cyclones, captained by J. A. Forsyth and the Real Estate men played under the direction of J. P. Gallagher, proved a strenuous conflict. After the smoke had blown away it was discovered that the score was 7-2 in favor of the Cyclones. "Twas a famous victory." The battery for the Cyclones was Parsons and Sutherland, and for the Real Estate men Clarke and Scarborough. The Cyclones are out after big game now and we advise Deacon White to hit for the cyclone cellar before they come after his bunch.
